Economic Outlook

Ghana's economy in 2025 is set for moderate growth, supported by fiscal reforms, debt restructuring, and sectoral advancements. The cedi is expected to stabilize, while tighter monetary policy is anticipated to drive inflation downward. The equity market is poised for positive performance, led by gains in financial stocks, particularly in banking, due to increased portfolio allocations and improved profitability. Mining, driven by gold and emerging lithium production, along with telecommunications, is also expected to attract significant investor interest.

The performance data shown represents past performance, which is no Guarantee of future investment results. Investment returns and principal value may fluctuate. Current performance may be lower or higher than what is shown.
